

The pattern is by Jane Hardy Miller and is called Shadow City. I wanted to make Roman Shades for our bedroom. When I saw the French Braid quilt that Laurie Schierer had made, I knew I had to make it too, only in greens and blues. My husband loves blue and I love the green/blues so that was the start of the colors. I cut my strips an inch smaller than the pattern called for and extended the length. I attached the quilt top to store bought shades. I would not do it again, but instead make the entire shade myself. When the shades are hanging on the French Doors with the sunlight coming through, they look like stained glass. The seams take on the look of the leading and gives them a Frank Lloyd Wright feel.
